

Important and Needed TBI Mental Health Policy Changes

What are the important and needed policy changes that can be done to improve TBI mental health care in the US?

Training and compensation for TBI Patient Navigators

Navigators help patients and families navigate the health care system and therefore should be trained and financially compensated

Incentives for clinicians involved in care of people with TBI and neuropsychiatric problems

Incentives can be in the form of special reimbursements or specific TBI loan replacement programs

Implement 360-degree TBI mental and behavioral health education

Training courses, seminars, workshops, documentaries to be made available to patients, caregivers, clinicians, care coordinators, and legislators

Improve Telemental health services

Fund research on TBI telemental models and adequately reimburse individuals providing TBI telemental care

Create Government-funded TBI programs

This can be of use to the homeless and the indigent population who are unable to get the comprehensive services they need
